THINGS THEY LEARNED

Water covering this tender growing tip for a few hours will kill it causing fermentation and loss of the whole stalk.

During the past ten years two have seen rainfall sufficient to cause land flooding. The first of these in November 1922 with cane 8 to 10 feet tall put a sheet of water over fields at Canal Point to a depth of 3 to 4 feet.

It was thirty days or more before this water was lowered to ground level. Cane this year gave normal tonnage and sugar yields, though it is said the stubble crop of the following year was somewhat reduced in tonnage yield.

The second of the period came in June 1936. The total rainfall for the month at the Experiment Station was 12.75 inches. The month opened up with heavy rains and the soil was water logged with rains when on the 14th 6.55 inches fell. Plant cane on the station was about 24 inches tall. Water came to the top of the writer's fields when he went into the field on the 16th and it was several days before pumping showed ground level.

Little worry was caused for the growing of this plant cane as water was always above the water level. The yields this year at the station were 100 percent of the normal yield.

The effect of flooding on stubbles of a harvest crop may be illustrated by the example of the writer's fields. Here the 1934 crop showed in October 100 percent yield and the 1935 crop showed in October 100 percent yield.

Every service was conducted each evening under the direction of Mrs. G. J. Barstow, Rev. A. B. Beck led devotion services two evenings, talking on the "Parable of the Lily" at the Senior Camp and telling the true story of the "Red Carnation" at the Junior Camp.

Mr. Mina Holland of Deland presided over the senior County session on Wednesday at which time the reports of the State Senior Council were presented by Mrs. Holland and Mrs. H. G. Hager, official delegates. Announcement was made that all individual record books must be in the office by August 15 and that the County Book Committee would meet early in September to assemble the county book.

The evening programs at both camps were given over to games and stunts, many clever stunts being worked out. The camp newspaper was read at the Alumnae Luncheon on Saturday by Alice Cronkite. Reported were Ruth Barstow, Elizabeth Barnes and Carolyn Mutchler. Prize for outstanding work at the 4-H Camp were presented during the Alumnae Luncheon. Twelve women were registered as full time campers and a half dozen others came during the day for the program. Thirty-one girls were present at the 4-H Camp. Of these many were from the Everglades. What does Standard protection do for you?

It helps you relax, Mister, away from home

No doubt about it, vacation time should be relaxing time. But, how can a man relax who's worrying about his home? Might it catch fire? ... or windstorm knock it away? ... or vandals break in? ...

Take a tip from our dreaming vacationer. He's relaxed, unworried, full of peace of mind—because he's made sure that an insurance expert has him protected with sound capital stock company insurance against each hazard to home or business. He knows that, if anything happens back home, his agent will be on the job, and that his insurance company can and will make good.

Let us protect your home, furnishings, business, automobile and other possessions with dependable, economical capital stock company fire insurance.
